Building a startup means recruiting and engaging many stakeholders to help support your team. These people are important. They are invested in your success. They want to help, to be engaged, and to contribute. What is the appropriate level of detail to share with stakeholders who are not part of the core team? How you demonstrate progress to different people depends on the frequency of communication.

Read Jen's Founder2Founder blog for tips on communicating with investors at the right frequency!

NOTEWORTHY NONPROFIT

Legacy Land Conservancy

For more than 50 years, Legacy Land Conservancy has been dedicated to protecting land and water in the Washtenaw and Jackson counties as Michigan's first local land trust. Legacy is committed to ensuring that future generations enjoy the clean water, fresh food, scenic rural heritage, and peaceful recreational opportunities that have characterized our communities for generations.

Legacy maintains seven preserves in the area, covering 308 acres with vibrant ecosystems, in addition to monitoring more than 6,000 acres of conservation on private properties. Visitors can explore the seven local preserves for family-friendly outdoor recreational activities, such as hiking, bird watching, skiing, nature study, and photography.

As a past AAACF General Operating Support grantee, Legacy Land Conservancy has demonstrated strong leadership & governance, high-quality & impactful programming, and financial strength. Based on national best practice and local nonprofit input, providing unrestricted funding supports the mission, activities, and community impact of the local nonprofit sector.
